Business

It takes a lot to build and maintain a successful business. Whether you are an entrepreneur starting a new business, or a well-established company, you need the right legal team at your side. Our business and corporate attorneys represent a broad spectrum of businesses including partnerships, corporations, joint ventures, and start-ups. We provide businesses and their management, counseling on day to day business activities and legal questions often acting as their general business counsel. We are frequently involved on behalf of our clients in mergers and acquisitions, stock or asset sales, venture capital, and other business financings, including intellectual matters. Our litigators are ready to assist our business clients with their disputes in both the state and federal courts, as well as dispute resolution alternatives such as mediation and arbitration.

Construction

Our construction attorney, Vincent L. DeBiase, represents contractors and design professionals in the commercial construction matters including residential subdivisions, office buildings, hotels, hospitals, and schools. We handle all aspects of the construction process, although each process is different, our experience allows us to advise clients on how to minimize risk, and litigate for disputes that may arise including workmanship differences, schedule delays, or liens. Additionally, our real estate, land use, and banking attorneys contribute their expertise and support.
