Family law matters are each distinct and require a tailored counsel in order to meet your needs and resolve the legal issues in the most effective manner. Our firm provides efficient, supportive, and concrete representation for those facing family related matters, guiding you towards reaching your goals. Additionally, the department draws upon the various resources of the firm as issues in family law matters often relate to real estate, tax, estate, and corporate law.

In addition to handling these matters through litigation, Rena M. O'Connor is well-versed in negotiation, handling hundreds of matrimonial, and custody cases where the parties have chosen not to proceed with litigation. Our department's capabilities allow us to continue representing clients after the divorce is final, handling division of pensions by domestic relations orders, and any modifications that may be necessary as children grow older or circumstances change.

Creating a team from conception to be there for the duration of your legal issues guarantees a consistent, informed, and strong backbone of representation.
