Our firm includes a former Active Duty Judge Advocate officer who provides services for a full range of military cases, aiming to protect soldiers, sailors, cadets, veterans, and their families. By fully understanding the various implications that may arise, we assist clients in maintaining their career, status, reputation, and assets.

Military regulations differ from civilian law, and obtaining accurate legal representation is essential to achieving clients' objectives. With experience in and out of the courtroom, we provide information and knowledge regarding courts-martial and administrative hearings, enforcing your due process rights throughout your case, and guiding you towards your desired outcome.

We have an advantage of being located just north of West Point, giving us the ability to work both directly and remotely with clients.
