

Jon H. Adams Of Counsel

eFolio

Jon Adams specializes in land use law, zoning law, and environmental law.

Jon represents large commercial and residential developers, as well as individuals before municipalities regarding zoning and land use matters. Jon advises clients and assists them in gaining approval in both state and federal courts. Jon has significant experience appearing in local land use hearings, Board of Appeals, and appellate courts.

Jon also practices environmental law, ensuring business transactions and land uses comply with state and federal environmental law. Jon navigates his clients through the regulatory and transactional processes involved in the purchasing, selling or building of commercial and industrial space and any subsequent litigation that may arise.

Jon was counsel to the Dutchess County Water and Wastewater Authority, as well as appointed Town Attorney for Wappinger and Pine Plains.
